Jordan Han Andrew is an award winning film composer and sound designer with a unique background which offers an uncommon skillset in the world of sonic storytelling.

Today, Jordan is currently writing additional music on two network TV series; CBS's Boston Blue, as well as CBC's Allegiance. He recently scored a teen horror film, R.L. Stine's Pumpkinhead, that released on Tubi October 2025. As well as a Lifetime Drama, Love, Again, starring Valerie Bertinelli and Henry Czerny, which will air 2026.

His horror score for Lowlifes earned him a 2024 Canadian Screen Music Award nomination (CASMA), as well as a 2025 Leo Nomination for Best Score for a TV Special. He recently won a 2025 Leo Award for Best Score for a Short Drama, co-composed with Blake Matthew.

Jordan uses his acute intuition for film scoring that resonate on an emotional level to effectively support each project. The SOCAN Foundation also awarded him as part of the 2023 Emerging Screen Composers Cohort. He holds 2 Leo Awards and 3 previous Leo nominations.

Jordan also holds a diploma from Vancouver Film School's Sound Design for Visual Media program, where he became certified in Pro Tools and well versed in the world of post production sound. He still keeps a great relationship with his teachers/mentors and occasionally teaches music editing workshops. A retired skateboarder and an unrealistic golfer who loves a good laugh, he hopes to score a diverse range of projects with a variety of musicians. Jordan is always excited to discuss future collaborations and ideas waiting to be brought to life - any excuse to nerd out!
